Disinformation, Fake News and the Role of Technology Companies

February 19th - 6:00 to 7:15 pm
Student Union Theatre

A panel discussion featuring:

in the office of the US Secretary of Defense

Mike Albertson

Long-time Bay Area technology reporter

Ann Agee

Associate librarian, SJSU

With social media platforms making the spread of false and misleading information faster and easier, more scrutiny has fallen on the technology companies that provide these platforms. Should tech companies be responsible for the content and/or be making decisions on what is and is not fake news? Are there ethical boundaries for them to consider? And, how can students become better at identifying the fake news and information that proliferates on-line?
