Course Description: Engl 07 satisfies GE Area A3 for undergraduates. It is an examination of critical thinking from a variety of traditions. The first part of the course will explore the basic procedures, forms and problems encountered by those who wish to think critically. We will also explore the structures of argumentation, the relationship between language and logic and between rhetoric and logic, as well as the benefits and limits of deduction and induction. The second part of the semester will look at various cases studies of human actions and decisions to see why we often think uncritically and act irrationally, despite our best efforts not to. The schedule lists assignments and the Student Learning Objectives met by individual assignments; the full list of SLOs is found at www.sjsu.edu/ugs/ge/guidelines.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY: This course is conducted under the University's integrity policy. All infractions will be reported by the instructor. The official statement can be found at www2.sjsu.edu/senate/S04-14.pdf.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: Students who need accommodations for disabilities must register with the DRC within three weeks of the beginning of the semester. The full University policy on students with disabilities may be found at www.drc.sjsu.edu.
