Course Theme

We live in an era in which the traditional concepts of gender are being radically challenged. Whether this is a good or bad thing depends on who you ask. Still, no one is arguing that gender roles today are the same as they were even a generation ago. Factors, such as the gay rights movement, higher divorce rates, and women’s increased economic independence, have fundamentally altered traditional expectations of what it means to be a man or a woman today.

From the fight for transgender rights to an America potentially on the cusp of its first female president, this semester’s ENGL 1B course will focus exclusively on issues of gender, present and past. We will achieve this by exploring a variety of texts about the social, scientific, and political dynamics of gender in the 21st century.

General Course Description

ENGL 1B is a writing course that exposes you to significant works of the human intellect and imagination. Through the study of literary, rhetorical, and professional texts, you will examine the analytical and creative process in the production and perception of such works, and the significance of the historical and cultural contexts in which the works are created and interpreted. You will practice prewriting, drafting, revising, and editing, and you will practice reading closely in a variety of forms, styles, structures, and modes.

The Department of English & Comparative Literature @ San José State University

ENGL 1B Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Upon successful completion of the course, you will be able to:

1. Recognize how significant works illuminate enduring human concerns
2. Respond to such works by writing both research-based critical analyses and personal responses
3. Write clearly and effectively

ENGL 1B Course Content

Diversity:

SJSU studies include an emphasis on diversity. You will engage in integrated reading and writing assignments to construct your own arguments on complex issues (such as diversity and ethnicity, class and social equality) that generate meaningful public debate. Readings for the course will include writers of different genders and from different socio-economic classes.

Writing:

You will write a series of essays informed by research and articulating fully developed arguments about complex issues. Writing assignments will give you repeated practice in prewriting, drafting, revising, and editing. This class requires a minimum of 6000 words, at least 4000 of which must be in revised final draft form. Assignments include in-class writing as well as revised out-of-class essays.

Reading:

In addition to being writing intensive, ENGL 1B is also a reading course. You will read a variety of literary, rhetorical, and professional works of the human intellect and imagination. Secondary materials will be read to help situate the historical and cultural contexts in which the primary texts were created. All the readings serve as useful models of writing for academic, general, and specific audiences.

Critical Thinking:

In addition to focusing on how to write arguments, the course also teaches you how to analyze and evaluate texts critically. More specifically, you will practice evaluating arguments for purpose, audience, rhetorical strategies, conclusions; evaluating ideas by contextualizing your assumptions and values (historical, cultural, socio-economic, political); and evaluating your own understanding of ideas by identifying your own interpretative lens.

Multimodal:

You will be presenting your arguments orally to class both as an individual and as part of a group.

MLA Style

As is standard in American English classes, all typed work must be submitted in MLA Style. Samples are located in both The Everyday Writer (p. 457) and online at EauZone. Unstapled work will never be accepted.

Please follow this sample heading for all typed work:

Course Policies

Grades and grading:

- I will sometimes make sentence-level corrections to only one page or paragraph of your essay. This is done in an effort to make you a better editor of your own work. You should assume that the corrections I've made are applicable to your entire essay.
- If extra-credit is offered, it will only be once, so please stay up-to-date on your assignments.
- There is a participation component to your grade. Though only 10 points, it could mean the difference between letter grades. To receive all or most of these points, it is important that you actively engage in the classroom experience (e.g. frequently asking questions and/or commenting). Simply attending class is not sufficient to garner full points, as they are based on active participation, not attendance.
- At least twice a month, I will share my most up-to-date grades with the class.

Assignments:

- All writing assignments are due on the dates indicated on EauZone, which contains the most up-to-date schedule and information.
- Late assignments must be emailed to me no later than the following class after the due date. However, they will be lowered one letter grade—I will not accept an assignment beyond this point.
- Assignments submitted via email, will be graded as any other. However, no marked-up hard copy will be returned to you.
- Without prior notification, missed in-class essays and presentations cannot be made up. If you must miss your presentation date, make prior arrangements with a classmate to switch days.
- You will automatically be docked 5 points on your final draft for coming to class on a writer's workshop day without anything to share.
- I will not accept any assignments that are unstapled.

Etiquette:

- I consider it highly disrespectful to sleep in class. If you fall asleep in class, you may be asked to leave.

The Department of English & Comparative Literature @ San José State University

- The use of laptops during class is restricted to note taking only—absolutely no social media during class time.
- If you come to class after the first 15 minutes, please wait for an appropriate moment to enter so as not to disturb the class.
- Please do not pack up before our class time is over—I'll be sure to get you out of class on time.

Email:

- Indicate your section number in the subject line, or somewhere in the body. This helps me reply to your email more efficiently.
- Google Docs users: Please remember to grant me permission to edit it BEFORE you share. Otherwise, I have to request permission to edit your document and the entire process is further lengthened.
- Email me individually rather than as a reply to a group message because I can easily miss these responses.
- Due to the high volume of email I receive daily, it may take me a day (or more) to respond.
- Unless it affects an in-class essay or presentation, there is no need to contact me if you miss class.
- If you were absent, please do not message me to ask what you missed. As soon possible, obtain the email addresses of at least two other members of the class. They should be able to fill you in on any relevant information. If you still have a question, then feel free to contact me.

EauZone

I maintain the EauZone (eauzone.blogspot.com) as a centralized location for assignments, reminders, documents, important dates, links, and general class information. It also contains an easy-to-reference archive of the course work. In addition, this website will be the location of the course's eReader (eR). These Web sources will be required to complete some assignments.

On the homepage, click on “English 1B: Gender Cards” under “Fall 2016 Courses” to be routed to our page. Feel free to use the “Comments” function in each posting; it is often a helpful way to communicate with classmates.

Grading Criteria

Grading: A-F. To take the Writing Skills Test and move on to upper-division coursework, students need a C- or better in English 1B.

Essays will be graded by the following criteria:

- An “A” essay is organized and well-developed, demonstrating a clear understanding and fulfillment of the assignment, written in a unique and compelling voice. It will show the student's ability to use language effectively with a solid command of grammar, mechanics, and usage.
- A “B” essay demonstrates competence in the same categories as an “A” essay, but it may show slight weakness in one of these areas. It will respond to the topic suitably and may contain some grammatical, mechanical or usage errors.
- A “C” essay will complete the requirements of the assignment, but it will show weaknesses in fundamentals, such as development. It may show significant weakness in mastery of grammar, mechanics, usage, or voice.
- A “D” essay will neglect to meet all the requirements of the assignment or may be superficial in its treatment of the topic. It may lack development or fail to stay on topic. It may contain grammatical, mechanical, and/or usage errors that interfere with reader comprehension.

The Department of English & Comparative Literature @ San José State University

- An “F” essay does not fulfill the requirements of the assignment.
