English 1A: First-Year Writing Course Description

ENGL 1A is an introductory writing course that will help you understand the writing process and the goals, dynamics, and genres of written communication. Through interpretation and analysis of texts, you will learn to think clearly and write effectively as you give form and coherence to complex ideas. You will explore writing for various audiences, purposes, and contexts.

About Section 60: “Write to Transform the World: Empowering Our Voices for Social and Personal Change”

This section is heavily focused on voice—particularly, the power that our voices can have in the world. How is voice political, personal and persuasive? How can our voices create social change? Most importantly, what happens when our voices interact, and we enter conversations about issues that matter to us? As you’ll see later, our course is designed strategically to move us from the internal/personal to the external/social. We must first understand ourselves as writers and readers before we can confidently engage with others, notice rhetorical moments in action, and make sound arguments.

In this class, we will apply tools of rhetoric, analysis, and inquiry to explore social justice topics in contemporary media. We will hold engaging, critical conversations about what’s happening in our world, and examine the dialogues happening in and beyond our classroom (we’ll even listen to Kendrick Lamar!) Together, we will harness our voices and experiences to take a more active role in our communities. Through engaging activities and exercises, we will also help you “unlock” the writerly skills you’ll need to succeed at SJSU regardless of your chosen major.

Course Format

Logistics/Canvas Learning Management System

ENGL 1A is an entirely in-person course accompanied by an online platform called Canvas. Course materials such as syllabus, handouts, notes, assignment instructions, etc. can be found on the Canvas Learning Management System course login website at <http://sjsu.instructure.com>. You are responsible for regularly checking Canvas and your SJSU email address to learn of any updates.

GE Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Read actively and rhetorically;
2. Perform the essential steps in the writing process (prewriting, organizing, composing, revising, and editing) and demonstrate an awareness of said performance;
3. Articulate an awareness of and write according to the rhetorical features of texts, such as purpose, audience, context, and rhetorical appeals;
4. Integrate your ideas and those of others by explaining, analyzing, developing, and criticizing ideas effectively in several genres;
5. Demonstrate college-level language use, clarity, and grammatical proficiency in writing.

Required Course Texts and Materials

Textbook:

Naming What We Know: Threshold Concepts of Writing Studies (Edition 16, Classroom Edition), Edited by Linda Adler-Kassner and Elizabeth Wardle. ISBN: 9781607325772. Available at the SJSU bookstore or on Amazon.com.

Other Readings:

Various online media, including articles, videos, songs, interviews, podcasts (links/scans will be provided in advance on Canvas or via email).

Technology Requirements and Materials:

- Students will need internet access by means of laptop, tablet, smartphone, etc. If you do not own one of these devices, you can borrow a laptop from the A.S. Print & Technology Center in the East Wing of the Student Union, 2nd floor. Our Martin Luther King Jr. Library also has computers on the 3rd and 4th floors (you just need your Tower Card) and there are also computers available for student use in Clark Hall. Please email me if you need assistance accessing technology. In class, you may use your smartphones for course-related tasks only; please be present and active in the classroom. Please do not text excessively.
- Loose sheets of paper for warm-ups and brief assignments in and out of class (you'll turn them in).
- A folder in which to store your free-writes and other materials.

Course Structure, Requirements and Assignments

The class is divided into four units:

Unit #1: The Power of Your Voice: Understanding Ourselves as Writers, Thinkers, Readers

Unit #2: The Power of Another's Voice: Analysis, Argument, Rhetoric, and Inquiry

Unit #3: The Power of Voices in Conversation: Joining the Dialogue via Argument

Unit #4: The Power of Our Polished Voices: Revising and Reflecting on Our Work

Each unit leads up to one major writing project, with the 4th unit culminating in a final writing portfolio. This class requires a minimum of 8,000 words, at least 4,000 of which must be in revised final draft form. We will practice all stages of the writing process: prewriting, drafting, revising, and reflecting. Prompts and rubrics for all assignments will be posted on Canvas.

Major Writing Projects:

- Unit #1: Literacy Autobiography
- Unit #2: Critical Analysis
- Unit #3: Argumentative Op-Ed + Short Presentation
- Unit #4: Final Writing Portfolio & Statement of Growth Essay

With each of these major assignments, you will also write and submit a “Statement of Goals and Choices” (SOGC) in which you will articulate how you approached the assignment, what you intended to communicate, what choices or negotiations you made in completing the project, and anything else we should know about your writing process. Reflection on the composition process is critical to becoming a strong writer and reader.

Revision & Workshopping Process for Major Writing Projects:

- A few days before the due date of each project, you will workshop your preliminary (first) drafts in class with a small group of your peers. They will give you feedback sheets and marked up copies of this draft for your review. Don't lose these!
- You will be expected to take the peer feedback and revise each project before you turn in a finalized version to me on the due dates listed on syllabus. With this draft, you must also submit the critiqued copies that your peers give to you on workshop day. ★ You must submit your writing projects on Canvas and turn in a hard copy of each unit project in class on the due date.
- I will then give you feedback (both in written comments and in a rubric with point values).
- You will have the rest of the semester to revise and edit your projects for final submission in your portfolio. Thus, for each project, you will complete three drafts: a rough preliminary draft for peer workshop, a complete draft for my review, and a final draft which will be submitted at the end of the semester. We will spend all of Unit 4 revising in preparation for the portfolio.
- ★ Please make sure you attend all workshops! 20 points will be deducted from the “Engagement” category of your grade if you fail to attend workshop for an illegitimate reason. If you know in advance that you must miss a workshop date, contact me as soon as possible and we will make other arrangements.

Homework (Short Writing and Reading Assignments):

English 1A is a reading-based course. You will have multiple reading assignments to complete for every class period, and most readings will be accompanied by some form of writing, such as a short assignment or brief

Canvas discussion post. In addition, all or most of the assigned projects will be related to readings. It is therefore imperative that you complete the readings prior to each class and come with your materials and responses prepared to discuss them in class. All readings in this course contribute to effective writing strategies. ALWAYS bring your texts to class, as we will spend much of our class time sharing ideas, questions and comments that arose while investigating the course topics.

University’s Credit Hour Requirement:

Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Final Examination:

Your final project will consist of a portfolio containing revised assignments 1-3 plus a Statement of Growth/reflection.

How You’ll Be Graded

Assignment	Word Count	GELO	% of Grade	Points Possible
Unit 1 : Literacy Autobiography + SOGC	1,000 + 500 SOGC	2,3,5	10%	100
Unit 2 : Critical Analysis + SOGC	1,200 + 500 SOGC	1-3, 5	15%	100
Unit 3 : Op-Ed (Argumentative Essay & Multimodal Presentation) + SOGC	1,500 + 500 SOGC	1-5	15%	150
Final Portfolio	4,000+	1-5	20%	200
Homework : Short Writing and Reading Assignments/Canvas responses	Varies (0-1000)	1-5	20%	TBD
Engagement : Combination of participation, class discussions, warm-ups and efforts to improve your writing (as evidenced through revision from first-final drafts).	Daily warm-ups 200-300 words each	--	20%	10 per class session

Here is one way to assess your engagement:

- A – Fully engaged, regularly and actively contributing helpful questions and comments to class discussions based on course content and your own ideas.
- B – Actively listening and asking occasional, pertinent questions and comments.
- C – Attentiveness questionable, posing few questions or comments.
- D – Unprepared for class, disengaged.
- F – Regularly absent, both physically and mentally.

Late Work Policy:

You will be allowed to turn in one late assignment of your choice (excluding the portfolio). You will have three days from the due date to turn in the assignment. Please contact me prior to the class or in office hours for more approval. You must still meet the workshop deadline for each project.

Homework assignments such as Canvas post discussions, mini-assignments and other small assignments that fall into the Homework category will be marked down 20 percent per each full day that passes after the due date. For example, if you forget to complete a 10-point Canvas post that was due at 12:00 on a Tuesday, you'd receive at most eight points if you turn it in within the next 24 hours. For each subsequent day, another 20 percent will be marked off.

In-class discussions, workshops, reflections, and warm-ups cannot be made up. If you have to step out of class briefly for any reason, please do so quietly and quickly as to not disrupt the flow of class. *You don't need to ask for permission to go to the bathroom! :)

Final Grade Breakdown:

A = 93-100%	B = 83-87%	C = 73-77
A- = 90-92%	B- = 80-82%	C- = 70-72%
B+ = 88-89%	C+ = 78-79%	D = 60-69% F = 59% and below

Requirements for particular assignments will vary, but in all cases essay grades will reflect the paper's effectiveness, which is broken down into three major areas: content (this includes maturity and sophistication of thought), organization, and expression. The following are the criteria by which essays are typically evaluated in first-year writing courses:

- An "A" range essay is organized and well-developed, demonstrating a clear understanding and fulfillment of the assignment, written in a unique and compelling voice. It will show the student's ability to use language effectively with a solid command of grammar, mechanics, and usage.
- A "B" range essay demonstrates competence in the same categories as an "A" essay, but it may show slight weakness in one of these areas. It will respond to the topic suitably and may contain some grammatical, mechanical or usage errors.
- A "C" range essay will complete the requirements of the assignment, but it will show weaknesses in fundamentals, such as development. It may show weakness in mastery of grammar, mechanics, usage, or voice.
- A "D" range essay will neglect to meet all the requirements of the assignment or may be superficial in its treatment of the topic. It may lack development or fail to stay on topic. It may contain grammatical, mechanical, and/or usage errors that interfere with reader comprehension.
- An "F" essay does not fulfill the requirements of the assignment. Other assignments, participation, and quizzes graded in points are converted from your % earned of points possible to a traditional A-F four-point scale.

This course must be passed with a C- or better as a CSU graduation requirement.

Our Composition Community

What We'll Do in Class:

We will start every class with a 10-minute warm-up (free-write) to orient you to the classroom environment and get settled. Then, we will engage in small group and large class discussions, complete active learning activities and explore various media including articles, music, videos, images, memes and more.

Class Discussions and Preparedness:

We will address sensitive, contemporary issues of social inequality through the lens of rhetoric and critical analysis. These issues will undoubtedly be personal for you and your peers. Meaningful and constructive dialogue requires a degree of mutual respect, willingness to listen, and tolerance of opposing points of view. Please maintain awareness of individual differences and alternative viewpoints at all times in this class.

Absolutely NO language of intolerance or hate will be allowed in this class, including but not limited to racist, homophobic, transphobic, sexist, classist, ageist, ableist or otherwise violent language meant to attack others. Please do not perpetuate any inappropriate language that poses threat or harm to your peers. This classroom should serve as a safer space for students of all identities and backgrounds.

Active participation is essential to productive discussions. We want you in class collaborating with your peers. This is not a lecture class; I will facilitate much more than I will lecture. We will learn and explore ideas as a group, as we all have something to teach each other. Because every student deserves to participate in the classroom without interruption, all students are expected to come to class on time and be prepared for the full 75-minute class period. Please avoid lateness and absences. If you must miss a day of class, check with a classmate to figure out what we did in class. Email me if an emergency arises that will necessitate your absence.

Office Hours:

I strongly encourage you to visit me in my office this semester. You don't have to be struggling to come to office hours; I'm available to explain or review concepts that may not have landed for you in class, discuss your progress, and support your holistic growth not just as an ENGL 1A student but as an overall college student.

My Responsibilities as Your Instructor:

- To keep this class engaging, fun and relevant
- To treat you fairly and respectfully
- To inspire you to write powerfully
- To make this learning experience meaningful
- To design a challenging course to help you become better writers and readers
- To clearly present class expectations and criteria for assignments—with the understanding that you are responsible for reading all material regarding assignments
- To return work to you in a timely manner
- To be as accessible as possible for student support

Academic Integrity:

Your commitment as a student to learning is evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University. The University Academic Integrity Policy S07-2 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S07-2.pdf> requires you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The Student Conduct and Ethical Development website is available at <http://www.sjsu.edu/studentconduct/>. Sanctions are at the discretion of the instructor and may include the following: oral reprimand, failure on the evaluation instrument, reduction in course grade, failure in the course, referral for additional administrative sanctions.

University Policies:

Office of Graduate and Undergraduate Programs maintains university-wide policy information relevant to all courses, such as academic integrity, accommodations, etc. You may find all syllabus related University Policies and resources information listed on GUP's Syllabus Information web page at <http://www.sjsu.edu/gup/syllabusinfo/>

Dear students: You made it! Please celebrate yourself over winter break. The university is often a confusing, difficult place to navigate, especially when you are also adjusting to life on campus. It's well worth recognizing all of the work that each of you have put into your classes. You each have something important to say in the world, and I hope you'll stay in touch with me as you continue your academic and personal journeys at SJSU. Congratulations!
